KANT'S CONCEPTION OF PEDAGOGY

Toward Education for Freedom

G. Felicitas Munzel
CONTENTS

Introduction
  Kant: Philosopher-Educator
  Structure of the Analysis

PART ONE
HISTORIC & PHILOSOPHIC CONTEXT
TOWARD A HUMAN ORDER: EIGHTEENTH-CENTURY CONCEPTIONS OF EDUCATION, ENLIGHTENMENT & HUMAN SELF-UNDERSTANDING

1  The Eighteenth-Century as a Pedagogical Age

   Overview: Nature of the Question of Education
   Education as a Popular Goal
   Competing Paideia and Senses of Enlightenment
   Encyclopedism
   Trivium
   Philosophy
   Bestimmung des Menschen: Eighteenth-Century Purpose of Enlightenment

2  Texts and Movements: Relation of Human Self-Understanding and Education

   Key Texts: From Comenius to Pestalozzi
   Locke: Utilitarian Aim of Education
   Rousseau’s Critique of Locke: Self-Interest as the Problem, Pedagogically and Politically
   Self-Interest and the Common Good: Rousseau’s Diagnosis as Interpretative Lens
   Kant’s Reply: De-Throning Self-Interest
   Causality and the Possibility and Coherence of a Moral Order
   Ordering of Principles and Freedom of the Moral Order
   Happiness: Its Realization in the Moral Order and Obligation for Happiness of Others
   Inner Freedom as Condition for Genuine Outer Freedom: Freedom from Domination of Self-Interest and Freedom for Reason’s Interests
   Resulting Scope of the Program of Education
PART TWO
ATTEMPT AT A PEDAGOGICAL INSTAURATION

3 Kant’s Idea of Education
Critical Engagement of Eighteenth-Century Concepts and Principles of Education
Bestimmung des Menschen as Formal Pedagogical Principle
Critical Philosophy as Paideia For Educators

4 Formal Transcendental Principles for Education for Inner Freedom: Condition For and Critical Counterpart to External Freedom

Methodenlehren: Essays on “Ways of Instruction” or Kant’s “Missing” Critical, Transcendental Treatise on Pedagogy

For Theoretical Reason
1. Philosophical Cognition of Reason’s Interests: Status and Nature of the Problematic
2. Models of Rational Cognition: Their Inadequacies
3. Educative Work of Critique
4. Double Movement of Discipline and Positive Cognition
5. Judgment in Relation to Truth and Conception of the Self
6. Securing the Order of Judgment In Accord with the Final Purpose of Humanity
7. Critical Path: Summary Affirmation

For Practical Reason
1. Subjective Adoption and Efficacy of the Moral Law: Cultivating the Power of Judgment
2. Example as a Pedagogical Vehicle
3. From General Cultivation of Cognitive Powers to Interest in Moral Judgment
4. Supportive Aesthetic Responsiveness

For Aesthetic Judgment
Civilizing: Cultivating the Sociability that Befits Humanity

For Teleological Judgment
1. Purposive Judgment in Relation to Nature
2. Once More: Cognitive Grasp of the Condition of the Possibility of Moral Final Purpose

For Ethical Habitude
1. Effective Teacher/Student Communication
2. Education: Being a Friend to Humanity

Articles for a Cosmopolitan Education
5 Toward Material Principles Fulfilling Formal Conditions for Education for Freedom: Philosophy as Paideia and the Liberal Arts

Metaphysics: Philosophical Habit of Mind
Seven Liberal Arts of Learning
  * Distinction and Relation of Education of Individual and Citizen
  * Reason and Speech: Their Cultivation and Interconnection
  * Depiction of the Seven Liberal Arts in De Nuptiis
  * Summary: Liberating Nature of the Liberal Arts

Philosophy and the Higher Faculties
In the Mirror of Friendship: Education as Humanity’s Relation of True Friendship to Itself
  * Friendship as Structural Principle of the Life of the Being of Reason and Speech
  * Articles for a Cosmopolitan Education: Condition for Possibility of Education Fulfiling Humanity’s Relation of Friendship to Itself

EPILOGUE: Relevance for Today

Bibliography
Index