Rules of Appropriate Conduct for IDIV 240 The Making of the Modern Mind

Manchester University, January 2024 – London, UK; Paris, France

In order to keep this trip running smoothly and to insure your safety, there are a number of rules that each person will need to agree upon and then follow. If you do not follow these rules, the right to send you home immediately (at your expense) is reserved.

1. You must keep your passport and related documents with you at all times.
2. You must be present at breakfast each morning even if you have no intention of eating.
3. You must attend all course related events, unless illness prevents it, and the instructor is aware of said illness.
4. You will be back into the hotel/hostel by midnight each night.
5. You will not be out alone wandering the city at anytime. If you are venturing off to explore something, you must do so in groups of at least two.
6. You must keep a copy of the business card of the hotel/hostel with you at all times (helps to tell a taxi driver where to take you). You must also keep some money in a place where pickpockets or muggers cannot access (in case you need a taxi ride).
7. You will not drink to excess (= become inebriated), nor will you bring, buy, accept, or use any illegal drugs.
8. You will not get into the car of a stranger; you will not visit a stranger's home.
9. You will not go off with some person you meet in a pub, bar, or dance club.
10. You will notify the instructor or chaperone immediately if you are ill, injured, notice anything suspicious, or believe another student needs help.
11. You will respect one another, watch out for each other, and try to be a good ambassador of the course, the University, the United States.
12. You will comply with any requests of the instructors and the chaperones that involve the operation of the course or your safety.

I agree to follow all of the rules outlined in this document. I understand that if I do not follow these rules the instructor has the right to send me home at my expense.
